

Welcome!

Welcome to the Idaho Academy of Science and Engineering (IASE) website! We are a non-profit organization, founded in 1958, and patterned after the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine (NASEM). Our membership includes scientists, engineers, educators, and students who are committed to promoting scientific excellence in Idaho and to using scientific knowledge to address the challenges facing our state and the world.

We believe that scientific research, education, and innovation are critical components of a healthy and prosperous society, and we are dedicated to supporting and advancing the following goals:

- Stimulate STEM education, research, and innovation in Idaho;
- Promote collegial relationships among those engaged in STEM-related work;
- Assist in the development and promotion of the technological resources of the State of Idaho;
- Unify the technological interests of the State; and
- Publish reports of STEM-related scientific studies and applications.

We welcome all members of the community who share our passion for science and engineering to join us in our mission. Whether you are a scientist or engineer, an educator or student, or simply interested in learning more about the role of science in our world, the IASE has something to offer.

We invite you to explore our website and learn more about our organization, our mission, and our activities. Here you will find information about our membership, upcoming events and activities, our awards and honors, and resources for STEM education and outreach in Idaho.

If you have any questions or would like to get involved with the IASE, please do not hesitate to contact us. We look forward to hearing from you!
